Primate Assay Laboratory (PAL) Update
March 2020

Along with the rest of you, we are working hard to balance the health and safety of our staff, their families, our center, and the community at large with the welfare of our animals, colony management and research. Currently we are maintaining operations for testing services to support animal care and have been able to complete all test requests received. But, as we have all seen, the situation is rapidly evolving. PAL will continue critical testing as needed to support our animals (and thus, can provide testing for your requests at the same time); but limits to on site access, PPE and other supplies, or other issues may require us to prioritize and adjust operations. Turn-around times might increase. We will let you know as soon as we know. For now, we are asking that you notify us by phone call or email if you are sending samples and also let us know the dates results are needed. We have already had to track down (successfully!) late shipments. Thank you for your patience and extra efforts.
We will all get through this together. Stay safe and well.
